

Building tomorrow's minds :

On the shoulders of teaching giants in the bush capital

Ms Mali Wijesundara is our HASS Head of Department. Her teaching skills and her ability to connect with the students in her classes, and those of other teachers is exceptional. This is due not only to a diligent manner and a master of her subject matter-but that she puts in the extra time with all the students and fellow staff members.

As the Head of Department, Mali addresses concerns that all staff have about workload issues and tries to form a work life balance by caring about the staff in the Department. In this way the team at Gungahlin College HASS Department feel supported-which is a rare commodity in busy times.

Whilst the work of the College rolls on-Mali is heavily involved in mentoring students through our extension or empower programs and is always working-around the clock-to make improvements and extend student outcomes.

Of note in the life of a busy department, and quite critical in times of educational change, is Mali's desire to look at new instructional methods, research, and examination of best practice.
