

Building tomorrow's minds :

On the shoulders of teaching giants in the bush capital

Sumana Rajah epitomises what it means to be a teaching giant at Wanniasa School. Her unwavering dedication to both her students and the school community is driven by an extraordinary work ethic, integrity, and an exceptional level of skill.

What truly sets Sumana apart is her quiet humility; despite her immense contributions, she never demands recognition or places undue expectations on others. Her understanding of her students is profound, and she approaches each with kindness, compassion, and a deep commitment to their success.

Sumana seamlessly engages with all aspects of school life, consistently taking on challenging tasks with grace and a positive attitude. Her support extends far beyond the classroom—whether it's helping families navigate school challenges or offering her colleagues a listening ear and a helping hand, Sumana is a pillar of the Wanniasa School community.

She fosters a nurturing and inclusive environment where everyone feels valued and supported.

Her ability to connect with students, families, and colleagues alike, celebrating their differences and building genuine relationships, is a testament to her character.

Sumana is the kind of giant who doesn't need to shout to make an impact; her presence is felt in the lives she quietly transforms every day.

Her leadership, compassion, and tireless dedication make her an irreplaceable member of Wanniasa School.
